No. 1 (issued 12 February 1954)

Some Sampling Variations in Soil Fungal Numbers. By R. E. Rose and Jean G. Miller .................................................. 1

Debaryomyces marana n.sp., Isolated from the Air. By Margaret E. Di Menna ................................................................. 65

A New Type of Polar Monotrichous Flagellation. By E. Leifson and R. Hugh ................................................................. 68

Heterocaryosis and Variability in Fusarium oxysporum f. gladioli (Snyder & Hansen). By E. W. Buxton ............................... 71

Alterations in Carotenoid Synthesis accompanying Mutation in Corynebacterium michiganense. By S. Saperstein, M. P. Starr and Joyce A. Filfus ................................................................. 85

A Marine Stichococcus sp. which requires Vitamin B₁₂ (Cobalamin). By R. A. Lewin ............................................................ 93

Synergistic and Antagonistic Interactions between Morphogenetically Deficient Variants of the Slime Mould Dictyostelium discoideum. By M. Sussman ......................................................... 110

The Methyl Red Test in Peptone Media. By Mary G. Jennens ................................................................. 121

The Effect of Desiccation on Antigenic Structure. By Mary G. Jennens ................................................................. 127

Nutritional Studies with Clostridium parabotulinum Type A. By J. Mager, S. H. Kindler and N. Grossowicz ......................... 130

Facultative Anaerobic Bacteria from the Sheep’s Rumen. By S. O. Mann, Frances M. Masson and A. E. Oxford ...................... 142

Some Effects of Thiouracil on Virus-infected Plants. By F. C. Bawden and B. Kassanis .................................................... 160

Type Strain for Staphylococcus aureus Rosenbach. By S. T. Cowan, Constance Shaw and R. E. O. Williams .......................... 174

Factors affecting the Growth of some Fungi associated with Sewage Purification. By H. A. Painter ..................................... 177

Proceedings of the Society for General Microbiology

COMMUNICATIONS

A Survey of 435 Strains of Staphylococcus pyogenes. By C. Lack

Biochemical Tests for Proteus and Providence Cultures. By Patricia H. Clarke and Constance Shaw

Some Aspects of Bacteriological Standards for Foods. By J. G. Davis

Specific Polysaccharides of Gram-negative Bacteria. By D. A. L. Davies

Changes in the Bacterial Cell Wall during Cell Division as seen in the Electron Microscope. By I. M. Dawson and H. Stern

The Absorption of Polymyxin by Cell-wall Preparations from Pseudomonas aeruginosa. By B. A. Newton

The Effect of Arsenate upon the Bacterial Breakdown of Citrulline. By V. A. Knivett

Some Studies on a Pyrimidine-requiring Mutant of Aerobacter aerogenes. By R. H. Nimmo-Smith

The Tricarboxylic Acid Cycle in Bacterium coli. By K. McQuilten

The Action of Nucleic Acids on the Incorporation of Glutamic Acid by Fragmented Staphylococcus aureus. By E. F. Gale

Some Properties of an Oxalate-decomposing Bacterium. By G. C. N. Jayasuriya

No. 2 (issued 9 April 1954)

The Rate of Formation of Hyaluronidase, Coagulase and Total Extracellular Protein by Strains of Staphylococcus aureus. By H. J. Rogers

Gene Interactions: the Mode of Action of the Suppressor of Acetate-requiring Mutants of Neurospora crassa. By B. S. Strauss and Sophie Pierog
